FEDERAL WORKS PROGRAM MEETS SOME DELAYS

Outside Interference Causes Sec. Ickes Restiveness

Washington, Sept. 16—(AP)—The Public Works Administration is growing restive in the face of outside interferences— which it holds are delaying unreasonably the actual starting of much construction work for which money has been allotted.

What steps will be taken to remedy this situation remain to be announced but it is known that Secretary Ickes, the Public Works Administrator, is impatient about these delays, particularly because he regards them as largely outside his control.

Public Works officials class these outside interferences generally as:

Political efforts to cause uneconomic expenditures; inefficient applications; dilatory tactics by recipients of funds in letting contracts; attempts of contractors to avoid bonding; attempts of contractors to eliminate competitive bidding and the failure of many communities to find out what information and action is requited by the Public Works adminstraton.

Some Misunderstanding

The administration also feels that there is considerable misunderstanding of the size of its task.

It was no simple job, Secretary Ickes' friends explained, to set up an instrument for the expenditure of so huge a sum as $3,000,000,000. Never before, except in wartime, has so large a job been undertaken by the government.

The Secretary's associates say he considers efficient spending of the money allotted to him as absolutely essential, and that he does not believe it was intended that the money should be spent hurriedly to meet political or similar demands.

GANG CONTROL OF UNIONS IS CALLED MENACE

Illinois Labor Federation Takes Definite Stand

Chicago, Sept. 16 —(AP)—Gangster control was recognized today as a real menace to organized labor in a resolution adopted at the closing session of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

The vote was taken after Steve Sumner, secretary of the Milk Wagon Drivers Union of Chicago, which has armor-plated its headquarters because of gangster attacks, urged the convention to take a definite stand on the question, which, he said, had been evaded in past meetings.

"We have been fighting them and we will continue to fight them" Sumner said. "It is the business of organized labor to recognize the need for concerted action."

"I don't know how long I'm going to live, but I am going to fight until I am gone."

Legitimate and otherwise upright union officials, Sumner said, sometimes employ hoodlums to aid them. He denounced this as a very dangerous practice.

"Spike" O'Donnell Given Clean Bill By Chicago Jurors

Chicago, Sept. 16—(AP)—Edward "Spike" O'Donnell can tell the world he isn't a vagrant, and back the statement up with court proof.

A jury in Judge Frank M. Padden's court acquitted the reputed one time beer gang leader late yesterday, without giving him a chance to give a speech he had prepared for them. The court refused to permit him to read it.

As a result the hearing lost much of the hilarity O'Donnell had promised after taking the stand several days ago to defend his reputed bodyguard, Sanford (Gimp) Rosenbaum, in whose case on a similar charge the jury disagreed.

Yesterday O'Donnell was serious and answered all question without any show of bravado or oratory. He testified that when arrested he was talking to a city inspector and was not armed.

Serious Trouble In Milk Strike Feared

German "War Baby" Coming To Dixon Tonight For Her First Meeting With Mother In Years

Home Of Mrs. Bert Higgens Will Be Scene Of Happy Reunion

A reunion between a German girl and her mother, who have not seen each other since the former was a little child, will be enacted tonight at the home of Mrs. Bert Higgens, 416 Dixon ave., when she will welcome her daughter, Miss Cecelia Osterheld, aged, 15, who is en route from Hamburg, Germany to this city to make her future home with Mr. and Mrs. Higgens. She is scheduled to arrive at 12:30 o'clock tonight over the NorthWestern.

The girl's father, a German soldier, was killed in an engagement in the Flanders region in 1917, her birth occuring shortly after the mother received news of his death. The mother, now Mrs. Higgens, was forced to seek a livelihood elsewhere, and came to America, leaving her baby with relatives, who raised the child into an educated young woman.

She arrived in New York City yesterday on the S. S. President Roosevelt, in charge of officials of the American Railway Express Co., who have looked after her welfare throughout the entire journey.

GOVERNMENT TO BUY 2,000,000 PREMIUM HOGS

Additional Quota Is Announced Today By Farm Board

Washington, Sept. 16 —(AP)—The Farm Adjustment Administration announced today that an additional quota of 1,922,000 pigs would be purchased in the emergency hog reduction campaign which ends September 26.

The original maximum in the campaign was 4,000,000 pigs ranging in weight from 25 to 100 pounds. The quota also included 1,000,000 farrowing sows.

Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the hog production section, said the quota on sows would not be raised.

Unusually heavy shipments of pigs, on which the government is paying a premium caused the decision to raise the original quota by almost 2,000,000.

Incorporates New Securities Mart In Newark, N. J.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 16—(AP)—Harry H. Picking, vice president of the New Jersey Registration & Trust Company, announced he was filing today the incorporation papers of a securities market, to be known as the National Stock Exchange, and to operate in this city.

It was learned that the New York Stock Exchange had not associated itself with the movement in any way, and that it had been undertaken purely on the initiative of the incorporators, but it was also understood that the New York Exchange was not making any objection.

Plainfield, Ill., Sept. 16—(AP)—Unless the weather man spoils everything the plowing champion of the United States will be known tonight.

One of the rural classics of the middlewest — the 55th annual Wheatland plowing match was the scene of the action. Some 10,000 spectators were hoping the weather would be favorable, but if it isn't they'll have to wait until Monday.

Carl Shoger of Wheatland was all set to defend his title. He planned to pilot a tractor-powered plow. Opposing him were a former champion, Homer Lapp, who has picked a horse to pull his plow, Frank Boardman, another former titleholder, as well as numerous other plowmen who hope to topple Shoger from his throne.

PROPOSED CODE FOR CEMENT IS NOW BEFORE NRA

Attacked By Illinois Spokesman: Lehigh Man Defends It

Washington, Sept. 16—(AP)—Malcom Pirne, Assistant Administrator of the National Recovery Act, had before him today two attacks and one defense of the proposed cement industry code.

Charles E. Deleuw, Assistant Chief of the Illinois Highway Department, told him that it was "ridiculous" to put the control of such a utility in the hands of a small committee.

"Rather, it would be wise to place it in the hands of a commission, such as that which controls rates for water and gas," he said.

Deleuw was backed in his attack by Robert Kingery, Acting Director of the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings, and G. T. Tisdale, member of the Consumers' Advisory Board, while Joseph S. Young, Allentown, Pa., cement company head came to the code's rescue.

In Illinois Deleuw told Pirne, road building was virtually at a standstill because it was impossible for the state to obtain cement bids on a competitive basis.

For his part Young, president of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company, said that the proposed code was necessary because it fitted in to the peculiarities of the cement business.

COMPLETE JURY IN LUER TRIAL LATE YESTERDAY

State Ready To Make Its Case Against Kidnap Suspects

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 16—(AP)—The jury completed to try five men and a woman charged with the kidnaping of August Luer, 77-year-old Alton banker, and no session of court today, defense attorneys busied themselves with interviews with the state's witnesses.

Although no session of court was held today, the jurors were kept together at the courthouse. Opening statements of the prosecution and defense will be made Monday.

Just before court adjourned yesterday, attorneys for the defendants asked Judge H. D. Mudge for an order permitting them to interview the state's witnesses. Judge Mudge said an order was unnecessary; as they had a right to interview the witnesses, if they could find them.

The state's determination to seek the death penalty for the six defendants was shown again yesterday by State's Attorney L. M. Geers. He had Clifford Cavener, 21 of Venice, stricken from the venire panel on which he had been serving since Monday, because Cavener had changed his mind about capital punishment.

INCREASED MILK PRICE MAY BRING STRIKE'S FINISH

Proposed Increase Is To Go Entirely To The Producers

BULLETIN

Chicago, Sept. 16 —(AP)—Sheriffs forces were mustered on the highways about Harvard, Ill., this afternoon as dairy farmers determined to carry their milk through to a receiving depot there made ready for a rush through a cordon of 300 pickets.

Deputies were summoned to convoy a procession of milk trucks past the strikers, and the temper of the pickets was such that a violent outbreak was feared.

Although the milk strike thus far has been devoid of any serious injuries, shots were fired last night into the homes of Richard Menzel and Gilbert Carroll, secretary and president of the Harvard local of the Pure Milk association. No one was wounded by the bullets. The Pure Milk Association is endeavoring to put down the strike of McHenry and Kane county farmers, counseling its own members to wait for the expected favorable decision as to increased wholesale milk prices by the Agricultural Admnistration at Washington.

Chicago, Sept. 16 —(AP)— An increase of one cent a quart in the retail price of milk in Chicago was put up to the Agricultural Department at Washington today by officials of the Pure Milk Association and the larger distributors.

As a result, the milk association announced that the strike of the farmers in two Illinois counties would be broken. They said that members of the association in Hampshire, Kane county, where no milk has been handled for three days, voted last night to resume deliveries today.

The contract agreed to last night and forwarded at once to the capital provides that the profits of the increase from 10 to 11 cents a quart go to the farmer. Officials estimated that as a result producers would receive $2.10 a hundredweight for the product instead of $1.75 as at present and approximately $1.45 a hundred for milk to be used in cream form.

Base Plan Intact

But the base allotment plan to which the strikers have objected most strenously, was left intact.

Following several skirmishes between picketeers and producers attempting to deliver milk to receiving stations yesterday, Don N. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk Association, said pickets would be matched "man for man" today with vigilantes.

"There are 600 pickets menacing threatening and in some cases roughly handling our members while they at attempting to deliver their milk to distributing plants in Kane and McHenry counties," he said. "We are prepared to match them man for man and will fight the pickets with the same weapons they use in their own territory."

Several of yesterday's flurries occurred at Harvard, Ill., home of E. L. Bost, leader of the strikers, and resulted in the Bowman Dairy Company receiving only about 5000 pounds instead of its usual daily allotment of 84,000 pounds. A few cans were dumped, fists flew and there were numerous bloody noses to account for the fighting.

Atlantic Seaboard Hit By Hurricane Leaving Wreckage In Its Wake

DOLLAR WHEAT NEAR REALITY ON THE BOARD

May Contracts Just Eighth Of A Cent From That Mark

Chicago, Sept. 16 —AP)— Dollar a bushel wheat neared a reality on the Board of Trade today. May contracts sold up to 99 718 cents a bushel at the close, just 1-8 cent away from the magic figures.

An advance of almost four cents a bushel came near the close when public buying became fairly general and found little pressure from profit takers. The market was at the highest levels in a month or more with all deliveries of wheat selling above 90 cents.

The strength in wheat carried all other grains along to higher ground with closing prices generally at or near the day's peak.

The May delivery of corn sold up to 62 1-2 cents. Some strength in corn was brought about by forecasts of frost tonight in portions of the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Inflation talk and another advance in the price of free gold were also factors in the rise of grain prices.

Despondent, Man Shoots Self And Sets House Afire

Pana, Ill., Sept. 16—(AP)— While brooding for over financial reverses, Chester E. Berry of Witt, who formerly ran a mercantile business in Butler, last night attempted to shoot himself and then set fire to his 6-room residence.

Neighbors heard a shotgun fired, saw the flames, and called officers who overpowered Berry. He was badly burned. State's Attorney George A. Hall filed a petition in County Court asking an inquiry into Berry's sanity.

Wind Reaches Velocity Of 75 To 100 Miles An Hour

BULLETIN

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 16—(AP)—Changing its course this afternoon the tropical hurricane that raked the North Carolina coast early today, shifted to the north and removed all threat of further damage to Norfolk and vicinity.

BULLETIN

New Bern, N. C., Sept. 16—(AP)—A wild hurricane which battered the new Bern-Morehead City-Beaufort area throughout last night roared on up the Atlantic coast today leaving a trail of wreckage in its wake. Damage was estimated at upwards of $2,000,000.

Lieut. D. F. Deotte of the Coast Guard estimated the damage in New Bern alone was in excess of a million dollars while city and county authorities in Morehead City and Beaufort said it would exceed $500,000 there.

Power plants in all three communities were put out of commission.

The first check-up revealed no deaths in this section. The storm claimed at least two lives, however, as a seaman was washed off the motorship Sun by high seas off Cape Hatteras yesterday and a Negro fisherman was drowned at Roanoke Island.

The wind reached a velocity of 75 miles an hour here while Coast Guardmen at Morehead City said it attained a velocity of 90 to 100 miles an hour there where the barometer fell to 28.86.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The full force of a tropical hurricane unchecked after lashing over the North Carolina coast, struck the Virgina seaboard today and stirred attendant devastating gales over a wide area. Two persons were known to have been drowned.

Communications were cut off from many cities. A small steamer was in distress at the entrance of Delaware Bay and was taken in tow by a Coast Guard cutter.

New Bern, N. C., with 11,000 inhabitants, was inundated by the meeting of a high tide with two rain-swollen rivers. Its waterfront buildings were crushed, and its only immediate aid available was a landing party from a Coast Guard vessel.

Morehead City, N. C., another of many hard hit, had roads choked wit hdebris.

Residents Fled

Coastal residents of Virginia fled to safer ground in advance of the hurricane's greater fury.

The Weather Bureau warned that the storm center, which was near Cape Hatteras at noon, would near southern New Jersey Sunday, passing near Cape Henry, Va., late this afternoon or tomorrow.

The bureau further warned that gales and unusually high tides would occur northward of Hatteras to the New Jersey coast.

The storm is the second of its kind to swirl up out of the tropics in two days. The first struck the coast of Mexico yesterday and left 6 dead, 50 injured and 2,000 homeless in the Tampico district.

Norfolk Apprehensive

Apprehension gripped Norfolk, Va., where the full fury of the storm was expected to strike later in the day. Coast resorts there were being rapidly evacuated.

Gales and high tides swept over the coast in advance of devastating winds. A wireless message intercepted by the Coast Guard said all docks and buildings at Pamlico, N. C. had been swept away.

A Coast Guard cutter reported by wireless that the highest tide on record had inundated New Bern.

U. S. MINISTER TO CUBA TALKS WITH PRESIDENT

Result Of the Conference Not Made Public This Morning

Havana, Sept. 16—American women living at Santiago were removed from that city today to the shelter of Peuerta del Sal, across the bay, due to distrubed conditions in the interior.

Americans at Cienfuegos also were believed threatened by labor troubles in that vicinity.

Meanwhile the new government of President Garu San Martin attempted to cut off the lights at the National Hotel, where several hundred former army officers remain defiant of the new regime.

Army officers asked the Cuban Electric Company to shut off the lights, but the company refused for the time being on the ground that the entire Vedado suburb also would be deprived of lights.

Soldiers began digging a trench in an attempt to reach the water main supplying the hotel.

Havana, Sept. 16—(AP)—American Ambassador Sumner Welles held a long secret session today with a committee of the student directorate, staunch supporters of President Grau San Martin.

This was the Ambassador's first contact with the new government, and came at a time when Grau San Martin, in another closed meeting, told his strongest opponents that he would not accede to their demands that he resign the presidency, to which he ascended less than a week ago.

Welles was said by a student spokesman to have expressed approval of the directorate's pro-government program.

The Ambassador left the conference apparently well pleased but did not comment. A student representative said Welles had sought an explanation of criticism directed at him in some quarters and had denied rumors he was protecting 500 Army and Navy officers entrenched in the National Hotel

May Land Marines

The student spokesman quoted the Ambassador as saying there would be no American intervention in Cuba, although it is possible American Marines may be landed if the lives and property of Americans in Cuba are menaced.

Welles and the committee met in the home of Eduardo Chibas, Secretary of Public Works under Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, whose return to the presidency is sought by the officers in the hotel.

Afterwards, students took positions near the hotel and compelled residents in the Vedado section to drive 16 blocks out of their way to reach their homes.

They said the government had been informed that the besieged officers planned to start firing on the 500 soldiers and students who held them virual prisoners in the fortress-like hostelry, in which the officers are supplied with many guns.

Opposition Confers

Meanwhile, powerful forces, including the ABC and OCRR secret societies, the Nationalist followers of Col. Carlos Mendieta, and supporters of former President Mario G. Menocal, during a protracted session, insisted Grau San Martin make way for a new government of national scope.

The meeting of the opposition factions failed to reach an accord, the president announced. Another meeting will be conducted Sunday afternoon.

Seventeen followers of the rebellious Capt. Fernando Aran, meanwhile, were in Cabana fortress awaiting trial. They were brought here yesterday from Pinar del rio Province where they were said to have revolted against the administration.

Aran and three lieutenants were not arrested, reports from Pinar Del Rio said, because they surrendered on the condition that their punishment be limited to resignations from the army.

No Fatalities From Sleep Sickness In St. Louis Area In Last Twelve Hours Give Scientists Renewed Hope

St. Louis, Sept. 16—(AP)—A period of more than twelve hours without a death in greater St. Louis from "sleeping sickness" today strengthened the belief of scientists that the epidemic definitely was on the wane.

Since the outbreak of the epidemic in mid-July, 146 deaths have been reported, the number in the city and St. Louis county being the same—73.

Dr. Edward Carl Rosenow, experimental bacteriologist of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., who inoculated rabbits with fluid taken from encephalitis victims, today advised physicians to treat the disease with a serum which has been developed as a result of his researches.

Number Of Entries For Dixon Horse Show Today And Sunday Surprise To Members Of Dixon Saddle Club

Sponsors of the Dixon Saddle Club horse show, which is being held at the high school athletic field this afternoon and will be repeated Sunday afternoon, were more than surprised this morning at the number of horses which arrived and were entered in the various events. One shipment of ten head of fancy riding stock was expected to arrive from Henry, Ill., this afternoon in time for today's performance. The entry list of ponies and fancy saddlers at noon today far exceeded the expectations of the officers of the Saddle Club. The indications point to an entry of not less than 50 head of horses and ponies for the two-day show.

With the clearing of the skies shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, the prospect was for a good crowd at the first horse show Dixon has witnessed in many years. There had been a very fine sale of tickets for both today and Sunday and there is every indication that the high school athletic field will accommodate its record crowd tomorrow afternoon provided that the weather is suitable.

This morning the space set aside for the fancy stock at the Manges feed barns was rapidly filling and those owners who brought their mounts to Dixon today are taking them direct to the large stable tent on the field.

STOLE BICYCLE

Two Chicago boys who had started out to see the middle west came to Dixon yesterday and then detoured south, going to Princeton. On their stop here they appropriated a bicycle belonging to Harold Brantner, which they took from a yard near the south central school. MAST COLLAPSED

The high steel mast at the Risley sand and gravel plant in the west end of the city collapsed yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. The heavy steel cables which held it in place were pulled from their anchoring places and an old house was partly cut in two by one of these. A walnut tree, to which one of the cables was attached, was pulled up out of the ground as the heavy steel structure settled to the ground. Fortunately no one was injured and only slight damage was incurred.

ATLANTIC SEA-BOARD HIT BY HURRICANE

N. C., and flooded other waterfront cities.

Wires were down and Morehead City, N. C., was cut off from the rest of the world, its roads blocked with debris and its communications stopped.

Sea Mountainous

Ships hugged the coast line. The seas were described as mountainous. The wind blew 80 to 100 miles an hour. Torrential rains beat down.

A first report sent from the office of Pan American Airways at Tampico, Mex., said that 32 were believed dead in that district. Later, corrected advices reduced this number to six.

Cold rain that swept New York and the New Jersey coast for two days and nights slackened early today leaving many streets and cellars flooded.

Heavy seas and high tide continued to menace New Jersey shore resorts and historic Barnegat Lightship was in danger. The surf dashed over projecting jetties to within five feet of its base.

Goast Guardsmen stood by on the beach at Deal, N. J., ready to shoot a line, if necessary, to six men on two barges anchored a quarter mile out. The barges were cut of from tow because of the heavy sea.

TERRIFIC WIND

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 16—(AP)—Whirling out of the tropics, a terrific hurricane today was sweeping the Virginia Coast leaving behind it a wide wake of destruction in the Carolinas.

The center of the storm had passed Cape Hatteras and the preceding swirl of its winds were lashing at Cape Henry and the Virginia coast.

Along the Virgina seaboard there was a steadily rising gale. It reached a velocity of 65 miles an hour at the capes before 10 o'clock, and the peak was due here during the afternoon. A blow of 55 miles an hour was recorded in the city proper and Weather Bureau officials said it would increase steadily.

Whipping up tremendous tides ahead of it, the Weather Bureau at Norfolk warned that the peak winds may bring with them the unprecedented heights of August 23, when Willoughby Spit was inundated, and other sections of the city flooded waist deep.

TOLL INESTIMABLE

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 16—(AP)—E. H. Dixon, manager of the Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Company's New Bern branch, said on his arrival here today that flood waters which inundated much of the city's business section last night, began receding at 6 A. M.

"Indescribable confusion," was his picture of conditions in New Bern, which has been cut off from communications with the outside world since early last night. No loss of life had been reported, Dixon said.

"The tide spread over the business district," Dixon continued. "Trees were blown down on about every street and telephone wires were tangled up everywhere.

"The damage will run into thousands and thousands of dollars but it is impossible to estimate the total now."

THE OLD CHURCH OF BARRAWAY

IN cloak of shadowed gray it stands
Dreaming among the level lands
That surge about like summer seas
This little house of blessed ease.
Within, the walls of rugged stone
Gather a beauty all their own
From sunset lights that softly stain
With color each untinted pane.
One window shining open-clear
Shows big farm horses grazing near;
Another frames brown cottage eaves
Red chimneys, branches thick with leaves;
Another shows—oh, magic-dim
Against the far horizon's rim—
Ely Cathedral, tower by tower,
Vision-like in the sunset hour.
Here amid scenes of lowly toil,
The ceaseless tending of the soil,
Beauty encircles those who pray
Within the church of Barraway.

—ANOTHER NEA FOOD FEATURE—

THIS SALAD'S CUT OUT TO BE ZESTFUL!

Cashews Add Flavor To Orange Dish

Let the salad course provide the novelty and charm which any meal, no matter how simple it is, really needs.

Every housewife knows that you can serve the same food day after day—but not in the same way. Try different ways of serving the same old things and your family will eat them with relish.

One course must be outstanding. Why not let that one be the salad course?

Fruit salad is an old favorite. Try not to put too many kinds of fruit into one salad. You'll get more variety if you use only a few each time.

Nuts really have a place in any kind of fruit salad. Vary them, too. If you've been serving walnuts or pecans, why not try a few cashew nuts for a change? There is something about their subtle flavor which gives a fruit salad new zest.

Serving a fruit salad which has oranges as its chief ingredient, right in the orange skins, is a novel idea.

Here's what you'll need for Orange Basket Salad.

Three large oranges, one cup of diced pineapple, one-half cup of cashew nuts finely chopped, and one-fourth cup of mayonnaise.

Cut the oranges in half and carefuly remove the sections. Take out all the membrane, if possible.

Use the halves of oranges for little baskets. Fill them with the orange sections, pineapple, nut meats and mayonnaise which have been blended together.

Garnish each basket with a red cherry and a few whole cashew nuts.

Put them on a platter covered with lettuce and the hostess can serve the salad right at the table.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

Make A Contest Of It When Children Dress

Much worry will be eliminated if the children are taught to dress themselves when very young. A good idea, too, is to have a chart with days of the week and to let the children mark down with a red pencil if they have brushed their teeth, washed their faces, hands, ears and generally made themselves neat. At the end of the week a perfect record could gain some special treat.

Left-Over Tomatoes May Surprise You This Way

If you have tomatoes left over, why not treat them as a hot vegetable? For example, stuff them with some left-over stewed corn and then bake. It's a good dish, and another results from baking tomatoes that have been filled with raw egg and sprinkled with cheese.

Here's a Trick to Make Chicken Come Out Even

If you haven't enough chicken to serve the day following the chicken's first appearance it can be creamed, served on toast, with rice or macaroni added and your meal will be good, economical and yet sufficient.

Laundry Pointer

If you keep the clothes you are washing in boiling water too long it tends to yellow them. Five or 10 minutes will suffice for the boiling water period. A dash of lemon juice restores whiteness.

Garlic-Flavored Dressing

To flavor French dressing take the smallest piece of garlic possible, thread a needle, run it through the garlic and let it hang for 10 minutes in your bottle of salad dressing. Then pull it out by the thread.

After the spinach is thoroughly cooked cream well and serve with poached egg on each portion. It makes a good substitute for meat and with a dish of cottage cheese and sliced radishes takes care of a light meal.

Improving Spinach

After the spinach is thoroughly cooked cream well and serve with poached egg on each portion. It makes a good substitute for meat and with a dish of cottage cheese and sliced radishes takes care of a light meal.

A Child's Pusher

If your child is very small he should always have a "pusher" for his food, or if you lack a real "pusher" substitute with a piece of bread used for that purpose.

Mix Your Vegetables

ONE way to make vegetables more delicious and to vary their taste is to mix several kinds together. One way to make these dishes more economical and, at the same time, to have a wider variety of vegetables available is to mix canned vegetables with the fresh. Here are some of the combinations we would suggest:

Creamed Mixed Vegetables: Peel one large or two small cucumbers, and slice thin. Slice one cup of radishes thin without peeling. Boil separately until tender, drain and combine with the hot drained contents of a No. 1 can of peas. Add one cup of white sauce, and season to taste. Serves six or eight.

Southern Peas and Onions: Clean one bunch young onions and cut off tops. Then split them lengthwise, and add with one slice bacon to half the contents of a No. 2 can peas. Add three-fourths cup boiling water, and boil until onions are tender. Add more water if necessary. Remove bacon, season to taste with salt and pepper, and serve. The liquid should be cooked almost away. Serves four.

In Salads, Too

Pea and Potato Salad: Drain one 8-ounce can peas, add one and one-half cups diced boiled potatoes, one tablespoon chopped onion and one tablespoon chopped pimiento, and marinate in four tablespoons French dressing. Add two tablespoons chopped walnuts and one-third cup mayonnaise, and season to taste with salt, pepper and celery salt. Serve on lettuce leaves. Serves four.

AN ARISTOCRATIC SPORT GOES DEMOCRATIC.

Among the ancient institutions that have had a good bit of their gloss rubbed off by contact with a rough-necked world during the last few years one must not forget to list the once snooty game of tennis.

This game, which started 'way back when as an amusement for the nobility of Europe, has been carried along on the tide of events until now it is becoming a diversion for the masses, much like baseball and football; and the sign of its change is to be found in the way the galleries behave at the big matches.

If you followed the newspaper accounts of the recent matches at Forest Hills, you can hardly fail to have noticed that players, umpires and presiding officials were pained every so often by the effervescence of the paying spectators. A one-time tennis queen was booed lustily when she walked off the court; shouts of applause punctuated all of the games, the umpires were obliged often to call for quiet, and the players protested that the yells of the cash customers disturbed the Sabbath-like quiet in which the games were being conducted.

All of this is contrary to the ancient dignity of tennis. You are not supposed to cheer loudly, or to administer the razzberry, in a tennis stadium. A little refined hand-clapping, now and then—that's the limit.

But the crowd gets unruly, in spite of tradition. And the whole business is just one more example of the thing that inevitably happens to any game when it is trotted out of the seclusion of an aristocratic club and made a spectacle for the people at large.

These big tennis matches make their bid for popular support. The stars are national characters in precisely the same way that star baseball players, golfers and pugilists are national characters. Some of them, for all the fact that they are "amateurs," make a very good living out of the game. And they have precious little kick coming if the cash customers get noisy.

When you court public favor, build a big stadium and collect cash at the box office from all comers, you can't complain if the crowd behaves as it would at any professional exhibition. Lawn tennis, college football, polo—all of these sports are being professionalized because they woo the crowds. If the sponsors of these sports are pained at the way the crowds act, their one remedy is to stop selling tickets.

CHICAGO COMES BACK.

It is hardly surprising to learn that Chicago is beginning to experience a genuine business boom at last. The Century of Progress exposition has brought a great many visitors to the middle western metropolis, and they have spent a great deal of money. The result is a stimulation of all lines of trade, and a brighter horizon than Chicago has known for many a weary day.

The week that began on Labor Day, for instance, saw a total of $40,000,000 spent by visitors to the exposition. That, of course, was an exceptional week; but it is perfectly evident that even a far smaller amount of spending, continued week after week, would set the cash registers jangling in the good old-fashioned way.

Nor is this a matter that concerns Chicago alone. Prosperity is contagious, thank heaven; if Chicago's business is good, a lot of outlying places are going to feel the effect. The World's Fair is a pretty important item in our long-awaited climb back toward prosperity.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

On Oct. 8 begins the nation's annual observance of Fire Prevention Week; and while a great many of these weekly programs are both boresome and faintly ridiculous, this is one which deserves the support of all citizens.

It deserves support principally because most fires start through human carelessness, and because all big fires begin as little fires. If the ordinary man exercises a little extra care in connection with every activity which has to do with the control of fire, he can do his part toward wiping out one of the most devastating of all our economic wastes.

In 1931 fires in the United States caused a total loss of a little more than $50,000,000. Add to that the bill for fire insurance and the cost of supporting innumerable fire departments, and you begin to see how expensive the fire menace really is. The moral, in connection with Fire Prevention Week, is obvious.

A judge is as much affected by his predispositions and prejudices as any one else, and the necessity of a unanimous vote of 12 is some protection. — Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney.

Hospitals are on their last legs, with free care increasing.—Arch Mandel, executive secretary, Dayton Community Chest.

The recovery program will never succeed without inflation. . . . The administration has had no real inflation to date.—Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma.

The present crime situation is an irresistible growth produced by the laxity of officials. — Judge Kavanagh of Chicago.

THE TWYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN — Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The little pet pup seemed to know that it was putting on a fine show. Each time it leaped through Duncy's hoop, it wagged its tail a bit.

Then old Polly Parrot shouted, "Try to make the dog stand way up high. Then, also, tell it to sit down and it will promptly sit.

"I know it will. I trained that pup. Why, look! Right now it is sitting up." Then Goldy added, "My, that is cute. Here, puppy, come to me!

"I want to snuggle you real tight. Don't worry! You will be all right." The pup then crawled into her lap as comfy as could be.

"Aw," wee Scouty cried, "it is all tired out. You have played with it too much, no doubt. Let's let it sleep and all find something else that we can do."

"That is fair enough," said wee Goldy. "I will sing a little lullaby. The rest of you can have your fun. I'll shortly follow you."

Then Wind asked, "Why go awa? Right here is a real nice place to stay. There's Tubby, the old basket cat. We'll have some fun with it.

"Don't anybody pull its tail. It would only make it loudly wail. Why, I have heard that teasing makes a nice cat have a fit."

Then to the basket Windy went, where quite a little while was spent in coaxing the old pussy cat to jump out to the ground.

"We want to see the tricks you know," said Dotty. "Aw, come on you are slow. There is no need to be frightened. Don't just sit and look around."

At last the pokey cat jumped out. Then all the bunch heard Duncy shout. "For goodness sakes, what a surprise! Four kittens I can see.

"Ill bet they love to jump and run. Here's where we have a lot of fun. I'd like to pet all four of them. They are as cute as they can be."

(The kittens put on a show in the next story.)

18th Amendment May Die Dec. 6

Votes for repeal in seven more states will knock the prohibition amendment out of the constitution, as indicated by the map above, in which states which have voted wet are shown in white. They number 29, with the recent victories in Maine, Maryland, Minnesota and Colorado. States which have not yet voted are shown in black with election dates indicated where they have been set. Nine states will vote on or before Nov. 7, and 36 are needed for adoption of the repeal amendment. Actual repeal must await the meeting of the 36th state convention ratifying the amendment, which will be on Dec. 6, if the present overwhelming wet trend continues.

To get the new bank open it is necessary that the depositors of the old bank sign waivers of forty-five per cent of their deposits. The bank invites and urges its depositors to come to the bank at their earliest convenience and sign the waivers. All details of the reorganization will be fully explained to them.

Stock in the new bank, one thousand shares, is being taken up, one half by the old stock-holders and the other half is offered to depositors.

Time is an important item because the sooner the waivers are signed and the stock subscribed, the sooner will the bank be opened and the depositors' accounts made available to them.

HITTERS FAILED TO HOLD PACES DURING THE WEEK

However, Neither Foxx Or Klein Have Much To Worry About

New York, Sept. 16 —(AP)—The continuation of Jimmie Foxx's home run hitting spree furnished about the only bright spot for major league batsmen during the past week as averages plunged downward on all sides.

Foxx made only four hits in the week which ended yesterday but three of them were homers, bringing his total up to 45. His average still the best in the American League, dropped six points to .358.

Chuck Klein, National League leader in slugging and batting both, gathered in seven hits but his percentage dropped five points to .373. He failed likewise to add to his league lead in homers and doubles.

Neither leader was given much cause for worry, however, as nearly all the other "first ten" batters for both leagues lost gound. Heinie Manush of Washington maintained his .332 average to go into second place in the American League as Lou Gehrig dropped four points into a third place tie with Al Simmons at .331. Spud Davis, second Philadelphian, in the National, dropped two points to .342 while Bill Terry, New York manager, moved into third place at .326.

Manush and Klein became the first major leaguers of the year to collect 200 hits.

GIANTS PUT AN END TO FORLORN CUBS' LAST HOPE

Two Great Performances On Mound Too Much For Chicagoans

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The New York Giants, through one great day of pitching, have changed their final western tour into a triumphant march toward the National League pennant.

They all but disposed of the Chicago Cubs' aspirations with one big blow yesterday, winning both halves of a doubleheader, 5 to 1 and 4 to 0, and climbed back to the point where they were when they started west, 7½ games in front of the field. Four clubs still might beat the Giants out, but the fans already have decided the Terrymen are "in" and that old John Q. Certainty is waiting just around the corner.

Here is how the three leading clubs stood today:

	W.	L.	Pct.	To play
New York ..	85	53	.616	14
Pittsburgh ...	79	62	.560	13
Chicago	80	63	.559	11

Even if the Pirates and the Cubs win all their remaining games, the Giants have to capture only six to look like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	91	51	.599
Pittsburgh	92	62	.597
Chicago	91	63	.591

Cards, Braves Out

The St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves, 10½ and 12 games behind, respectively, after the Cards took a 9-2 lacing from the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Braves trimmed Pittsburgh 10-1, yesterday, are in the race mathematicaly only.

Hal Schumacher and Herman Bell were the pitchers who put the damper on Chicago's hopes yesterday. Schumacher sat down the Cubs with six hits in the first game while the Giants batted out Bud Tinning early, nicked Pat Malone for another run to stay ahead and wound up with three "gift" runs off LeRoy Herrmann in the ninth.

Malone got into a brief fistic encounter with George Davis, Giant outfielder, in the eighth and both were banished from the field. The difficulty arose from Malone's cutting in front of Davis when the latter was running out a grounder.

Ball Was Effective

Bud Parmalee started the second game for the Giants, but was too wild to last and Bell did most of the pitching. Between them they allowed only two hits. Bell retired 16 men in order after taking the hill with two out and the bases full in the third.

The Phillies and Cincinnati Reds split a double bill, Reg Grabowski, back with the Phils after some minor league seasoning, allowed the Reds only two singles as he won the opener 4-0. Allyn Stout of the Reds came back with a five hit job and Sparky Adams and Jim Bottomley pounded out a 3-1 triumph for him.

The American League program was obliterated by rain.

Davenport Blue Sox Win Valley League Pennant

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 16—(AP)—The Davenport Blue Sox won the championship of the Mississippi Valley League here last night by defeating Rock Island, 5 to 4, in the fifth game of the post-season series. The Sox won four out of five five games to clinch the pennant.

Davenport secured four runs off Hollingsworth, Rock Island southpaw in the second inning. He was later chased to the showers by Umpire Collins during an argument over balls and strikes, and Strickland checked the Blues until the sixth when three hits brought another run.

Prince blanked the Rocks until the seventh when Allison's home run gave them their first tally. They secured another in the eighth and two in the ninth, Manager Cletus Dixon changing Pitchers twice in the final frame before retiring the side.

MUSCLE SHOALS EMPIRE MAY BE A BATTLEFIELD

Economic Experiments May Test Justness Of Power Bills

By J. R. BRACKETT
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, Sept. 16—(AP)—The Tennessee valley bade fair today to become an economic battleground to test the justness of the 20 to 60 per cent lower light bills projected for power from government-owned and operated Muscle Shoals.

Proposing to sell power at rates much lower than in most American cities, the Tennessee Valley Authority, in charge of Muscle Shoals, has marked out a Rooseveltian yardstick which probably will stir up the years-old argument of public versus private ownership and operation.

David E. Lillienthal, assigned to the execution of the power program, apparently has taken every precaution to be sure that Muscle Shoals' expenses will be comparable to the expenses of a privately-operated power plant, has allowed 25 per cent for good measure—and then proposes an average of 2¾ cents a kilowatt hour as against the private companies' average of 5:58 cents to the ordinary consumer. Yesterday he announced the wholesale price to municipalities owning their distributing systems would be 7 mills a kilowatt-hour.

May Support Empire

Now competitive in only a small region and with limited opportunity for geographical expansion, the Muscle Shoals plant will be expanded with the building of the Norris dam so that it may support a huge industrial empire within the region—an empire attracted, in part, by low rates.

Thus, the accuracy of the Authority's figures on costs and capitalization are tremendously important to the private utilities, not only strictly as competition but as an example which might result in a wholesale invasion of the utility field by public owned plants.

Lillienthal explained that a tax of 5 per cent on annual operating revenues must be paid the state of Alabama, and that to make taxes comparable with private companies he has added 5 per cent to equal the national average per cent of gross revenue which private electric utilities pay in taxes, local, state and Federal.

Method of Valuation

From the government's method of valuing the Muscle Shoals plant one of the principal arguments of the private companies may arise. Lillienthal claims that in determining the "present value," accredited methods have been used and then goes on to point out that the law requires allocation of the property's value according to its use for navigation, flood control, fertilizer, national defense and power. Thus, while power is sold on the basis of the power plant valuation, and not the other costs, some of these other costs might be necessary in the erection of the plant.

Lillienthal has not announced how the Muscle Shoals costs will be allocated, and no officially announced valuation has yet been given the power plant. An estimated figure, however, is being privately used by him, arrived at on the basis of what a business man would be willing to put into a similar plant—and to this he has added 25 per cent to be sure the capital figure is sufficiently high.

Makes No Profit?

Another objection of private companies that a public plant does not have to be operated at a profit is answered by Lillienthal with the explanation that while the plant sells its product at cost, as a matter of fact it makes a "profit" of considerable size. First, the fact that consumers pay only cost means a savings to them—is a profit to the taxpayer, the actual owner of the property.

Second, provision is made for the ultimate retirement of the entire capital value at interest of the project. Whereas, a private company might pay dividends to stockholders, Muscle Shoals would pay back the United States the total value of the property, and when those charges were met it would turn its earnings into still lower rates. The plant might sell its power at a profit, then using the extra earnings the more quickly to retire the capital.

Private companies, however, may still object that they have to compete at a profit with a public plant operating at no similar profit.

Depreciation and other business expenses are included in Lillienthal's costs so as to arrive at an apparently safe high cost figure.

HORNER'S ALLY URGES REPEAL OF SALES TAX

Downstate Democratic Legislator Writes Him Open Letter

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 16—(AP)—From a downstate Democratic legislator, C. W. Burton of Edwardsville, today came a proposal that Governor Horner ask the October special session to repeal the two per cent sales tax law, effective January 1.

Such a move, Burton said in a letter to the Governor ,would assure adequate support for the proposed $30,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief.

"A $30,000,000 bond issue superimposed upon a two per cent sales tax will be the 'straw that breaks the camel's back," said the letter as made public by Burton.

"All taxes are painful, but the so-called sales tax is irritating and offensive and is a nuisance tax which in times of a slow-down in business is particularly obnoxious. I shall not amplify on what extent the people have rebelled at this irksome tax other than to say that the constructive and fine things that you have done have been completely lost sight of in the furor raised by this one bit of legislation."

Sales tax revenues are to be used for relief purposes until January 1, so the proposed repeal would not affect the financing of the unemployed.

Burton, who voted against the sales tax in June, urged Horner to abandon his plan to have the revenues for the eighteen months following January 1 go toward reduction of the state tax on general property.

"The sales tax was not contemplated as a permanent taxing program and why should it not be repealed when it has served its purpose as far as emergency relief is concerned?" Burton asked.

The Madison county legislator said he would vote for the proposed bond issue as an emergency measure, but declared that the sales tax put the downstate delegation in a difficult position.

"Your veto of the Lantz bills was to a downstater inexcusable but no doubt the result of bad counsel from Chicago," he told the Governor.

UTILITIES APPEAL

Chicago, Sept. 16 —(AP)— The right of the state of Illinois to collect the two per cent sales tax from public utilities was a matter for the courts to decide today following the filing of petitions by 21 such companies to restrain Joseph J. Rice, State Director of Finance, from collecting the levy.

The suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday and represent a total payment of $252,707 due from 19 of the companies for the month of July, the petitions said. Meanwhile, 15,000 local retailers hurried to make their payments at the Chicago offices of the state Finance Department as the deadline for the second monthly payment neared at midnight.

Expect Checks Tonight

Clerks in the Chicago and Springfield offices expected large batches of checks in the mails today postmarked before last midnight.

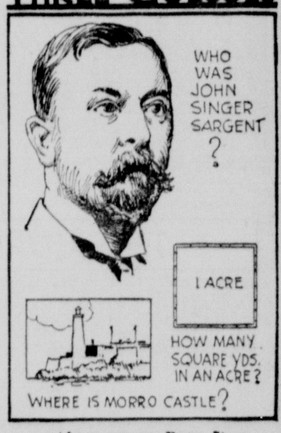

In attempting to avoid payment of the tax, the utility companies in their suits do not maintain that it is unconstitutional, but on the ground that their services are not tangible personal property as defined in the tax law.

"Public utility corporations traditionally, historically, and by law are charged with the duty of furnishing their respective services to the public and such corporations, unlike the merchants and shopkeepers, in furnishing their services, are not engaged in the business of selling property, as the expression 'sale and resale' is used in this act," the suits state in part.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

© 1933 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries DICK RADER, construction engineer. Dick wants Eve to stop working but she refuses.

Unknown to Dick, Eve plays the stock market on borrowed money. ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, buys stock on Eve's advice but loses all her money. SAM HOLERIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, is infatuated with Arlene.

MONA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is responsible for several mistakes at the office for which Eve is blamed.

When the building Dick has been working on is completed his employers tell him they will have no more work for him for some time. Eve is ungracious about this enforced idleness and they have frequent disagreements.

In September Dick leaves Lake City for a new job that will not be finished for at least a year. Eve refuses to give up her work to go with him. A fortune teller warns Eve against a dark man and she thinks of THERON REECE who has been forcing attentions on her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

THE nerve-wracking day following Dick's departure was over at last. Eve had worked an hour after closing time. Wearily she made her way to the wash room.

Miss Gordon, the coat buyer, was there before her, vigorously cleansing her face with soap and water. Eve felt guilty, remembering the costly error in the advertisement of the spring coat sale.

But Sadie Gordon greeted her cheerfully. "Don't tell me one of you pampered office girls has had to work overtime!" she scoffed amiably. "I thought that never happened to anyone except us slaves behind the counters."

"It happens about four times a week to the girls in our office," Eve returned. "What do you mean—pampered? That word isn't in the dictionary of a department store executive."

"Isn't that the truth!" agreed the other. "It's hard work, all right, but I like it just the same. Maybe that's because it's all I know. When I was 14 I was a stock girl at Rosenblum's. And I've been through the whole works—wrapper, errand girl, saleswoman, assistant buyer and now—after 20 years—a buyer. My first salary was $2.50 a week. It wasn't easy in those days. I was the oldest of eight children and all I ever got from my pay envelope was car-fare. I carried my lunch from home, done up in a newspaper. A sandwich and homemade cookies, maybe, and an apple. Likely as not we'd have nothing but potato soup for supper. But it was good potato soup! Plenty of milk in it and tiny egg dumplings.

"My mother was wonderful. I hate to think how hard she worked for us. My father worked hard, too, but always for small wages. He never got ahead—never had a business of his own. That was a great disappointment to my mother. But he didn't care about running a business. All the time he could have to himself he would play on his violin.

* * *

"HE was a tailor and my mother made him teach his trade to my three brothers. They had her business head and they made good. Started a little shop in a rickety old building on a side street. Now they own Gordon's on the avenue—Gordon's tweeds, you know. They could outfit the Prince of Wales himself!"

"Gordon's? But I thought—I've heard—" Eve began, then broke off in embarrassment.

"That Gordon's is owned by the Koveleski brothers?" Sadie finished the sentence for Eve matter-of-factly. "Well, it is. Abe and Sol and Ben. My name is Koveleski too but my mother thought we should have an American name in business.

"It's funny about names," Miss Gordon went on. "Our old country name wasn't good enough for a first class clothing store or for Bixby's coat buyer but it was just right for Abe's Lina when she turned out to be a real violinist."

"Lina—Lina Koveleski?" Eve repeated in amazement. "Not—not THE Koveleski, the famous girl violinist?"

"Sure," returned Sadie Gordon calmly. "Why not? She could carry a tune before she could walk and she was playing in public at four. She can make a violin speak—our Lina can! And she's a good girl, always thinking up some little surprise for her mother and father. I used to think it was foolish—the money Abe paid out for lessons for that child. But he always said she would make good and she has. But here I go, bragging about Lina, and your husband waiting down at the side door to take you to dinner!"

At this mention of Dick doubt and loneliness again overwhelmed Eve. "He isn't waiting tonight," she sighed. "He left yesterday for the Adirondacks. He's on a new job there," she went on, encouraged by Sadie Gordon's unexpected friendliness. "He'll be gone for a year—longer, perhaps. He's superintending a big construction job—some hospital buildings."

"You'll be leaving us before long then."

* * *

THE certainty in Miss Gordon's voice irritated Eve. "Oh, no! I'm not leaving," she returned spiritedly. I'll go on with my work here. We're modern—my husband and I. We started our marriage on a 50-50 basis. It has always seemed to me that a woman's career is just as important as a man's."

"Sounds grand, dearie, but the arrangement doesn't always work out as you expected. If I were you I'd chuck this job and follow that handsome husband to the wilds before it's too late—even if I had to live in a tent and eat canned salmon and baked beans three times a day.

"Tell you what," the brisk, kindly woman went on, as they descended long flights of stairs to the street (the elevators having stopped for the day), "why not come home with me to dinner if you haven't any special plans for the evening? I'll get something at the delicatessen at the corner and make some of that potato soup I was telling you about. It would be a real kindness to me! It never seems worth while to cook a hot meal for myself and yet I do get tired of restaurant food.

Eve accepted the invitation gladly. They stopped at the delicatessen shop and while Miss Gordon bought half a roast chicken, greens for salad, a small cheese cake and rolls, Eve selected a box of candy as her contribution to the little feast.

Miss Gordon lived in a large apartment house just off the avenue. The building, convenient to her work, was in a neighborhood no longer considered fashionable. This factor, which seemed important to Eve, apparently gave Miss Gordon no concern.

* * *

EVE, setting the table and preparing the salad while her hostess peeled potatoes and put them on to boil, found herself telling Sadie Gordon about Mrs. Brooks' old house with its great trees and attractive garden and how Dick had turned its dinginess into beauty with hammer, nails and a paint brush.

"I'd hate dreadfully to leave now," she admitted, "though I thought the place was impossible at first."

"This potato soup is delicious," she assured her hostess when they were seated at the cheerful table.

Miss Gordon beamed at this praise and gave Eve detailed directions for making the soup. "You can surprise your husband with it some evening," she said.

"Oh, I don't have much time for cooking," Eve confessed. "Dick gets home first—or did when he was here. He usually had dinner nearly ready by the time I reached home. Now that he's gone I suppose I'll eat out most of the time."

"Listen, dearie! It looks to me as though you've picked the world's wonder for a husband. Not many men would go home at night and cook dinner! Don't be foolish and let some other girl vamp him away from you. Why don't you tell Earle Barnes you've got a new job as cook in an Adirondacks construction camp?"

Eve laughed uneasily and changed the subject but when she returned home that night the apartment seemed unutterably lonely in spite of its beauty and comfort. She remembered Miss Gordon's advice. Not that she intended to follow it—not in the least!

But what if this temporary separation should lead to a permanent parting from Dick? He had gone away so calmly—almost cheerfully. Had he really been glad to go?

Eve cried herself to sleep that night and on many other nights to come.

Death Granulates Cells

Cells in the body become granulated after death, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told. Actual "life" in the cells is called cytoplasm and it is invisible. Methods of using stains that have always made invisible matter visible fail to work in the case of cytoplasm. It cannot be seen until after death and the granulation begins to take place. A cell dying slowly has more chance to come apart and fat or oil comes out of the cell most often, in droplets. Cells dying of starvation use up all their reserve supply and then digest part of the cell's living material to keep the rest alive. This also happens in fever.—Answers Magazine.

Obituary

Mona Bly was born in Taylor township, Ogle county, May 7 1860 and departed this life September 6 1933 aged 73 years and 4 months.

He attended the home district school at Carthage and one winter at Mt. Morris college. Then he worked on the home farm with his father later starting out for himself on a farm south of his early home. In early manhood he joined the Methodist church at Lighthouse, remaining a member of the same until death.

March 1, 1887 he was united in marriage to Miss Jessie Rolph daughter of Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Rolph, who lived in Taylor township on a farm. About fifteen years later Mrs. Bly passed away leaving her husband with six children. A few years later Mr. Bly sold his farm and bought land in Canada, taking one of the children with him, having found good homes for the others. He returned to this place December 2 1929, where he has since made his home with his sister, Mrs. Addie B. Johnson, who with another sister Mrs. Charles Ling and the children, all of California, are left to mourn.

The deceased was widely known in this section. He had many good friendly traits and admirable characteristics.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon in the Methodist church Rev. C. D. Wilson officiating. Miss Margaret Banker sang the funeral hymns Burial was made in the Lighthouse cemetery.

Mr. Bly's death was caused from injuries sustained when he was struck by an auto while crossing the Lincoln Highway. He was taken to the office of Dr. Banker where death occurred within an hour. Mr. Bly was coming to town from the home of his sister, Mrs. Johnson. Dorsey Buck, of this place had just passed in his car, and Mr Bly, not noticing a car approaching from the opposite direction stepped in front of the machine. The driver applied his brakes, but the accident could not be avoided. The injured man was rushed to the office of Dr. Banker where it was found that although no bones were broken the injured man suffered a concussion of the brain. The car was driven by L. H. St. John of Danville, Ill.

A coronor's jury, composed of F. D Kelley, A. J. Stewart, Louis A. Zoeller, Charles Haenitsch, Frank Hill and Wayne Bates decided that death was accidental.

Base Ball

Franklin Grove has a base ball team that any town could be justly proud of. They won a game Sunday afternoon from Daysville, by a score of 7 to 4. Daysville was strengthened by several Oregon players who met their defeat when Clark Phillips went to the mound for Franklin and pitched his first game since his school days of three years ago. Phillips turned in a fine game, allowing only four hits. Batting honors for the day went to Roy Cook with three singles in five times up, and to Bell for the only extra base of the game, a double.

Franklin Grove will meet the strong Lee Center team at Brecunier's field next Sunday afternoon and a closely contested game is expected.

When Tear Gas and Clubbings Climaxed Tieup in Silk Industry

Hundreds of strikers had attempted to rush the gates of a silk dyeing mill at Lodi, N. J., and this was the scene as police turned them back with tear gas bombs and clubs. Pickets are shown as they dropped their placards and fled blindly from the fumes. At least 20 persons were injured. Similar strikes in more than a hundred other dyeing mills brought the manufacture of silk textiles to a standstill in the east, for some 40,000 workers already were on strike from the spinning and weaving mills.

Everyday Religion

THE STRUGGLERS

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Samuel Johnson called himself an "old struggler," and so he was. Up through all sorts of difficulties he fought his way, often against heavy odds, but he won out. At times he tired of the struggle and thought it too hard, but it made him what he was.

A naturalist watched an Emperor Moth slowly emerging from the chrysalis stage. Day by day it struggled, trying to make its way through a hole at the end of the cocoon, an outlet so cruelly narrow that the watcher drew his penknife and slightly enlarged the hole in which so harsh a struggle was taking place—making it much easier.

Next day, the watcher found that the struggler had indeed ended its conflict, and entered on its life as a moth. But its wings were imperfect; it could not fly. It fluttered feebly, sickened, and died before night—a thing born weak and withered. By too much kindness, the humane watcher had been an enemy of the moth, depriving it of the glorious strength only to be attained by a severe struggle.

It is struggle with difficulties, dimly understood but faced unflinchingly, that makes a man, hardening what is soft within him and softening what is hard. It was so with Johnson, who did not have money enough to bury his mother when she died. Almost a pauper, he sat down in a tiny room in Staple Inn, and wrote "Rasselas," the Prince of Abyssinia and made enough to pay for the funeral.

Hard? Yes, bitter hard; but who does not see that by struggling with poverty, adversity and ill-health, Johnson became truly great? Or think of Sir Walter Scott, deep in debt, crippled in body, if not in mind, but fighting to save his name from a suggestion of dishonor? It was magnificent and who does not take off his hat in homage to it?

Old strugglers, all of us, fighting against many odds. It is the only way to win strength of character, so God and Nature say. It puts iron into the blood; it makes the fiber of our souls firm. Fight it out friend, and win the only prize worth winning!

Daily Health Talk

THE COMMON COLD

Longyear City, Spitzbergen, is noteworthy for an interesting study on the common cold, recently completed by the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Longyear City has a population of some 500 persons, the majority of its men being occupied in coal mining. Its shipping season is from three to five months, and during the remainder of the year the community is isolated.

The study disclosed that throughout the winter colds were at a minimum in Longyear Cty, but within a month after the arrival of the first ship from Norway 75 per cent of the inhabitants had colds and before the epidemic ran its course 90 per cent of all the residents had been affected.

Local history has it that cold epidemics never break out before the ships start to arrive and that there is no summer on record when the community was not affected by an epidemic. This study corroborates an impression that colds are infectious and seasonal.

Another interesting bit of research relates to the impression that people with enlarged turbinates (the shelf-like structures which project into the nasal space) crooked nasal septa (the middle wall of the nose) and other defects of the upper respiratory tract are more frequently subject to colds.

But it appears from the study that all persons, irrespective of their nose or throat condition, are alike subject to colds, and the severity of the disease, at least among adults, is not appreciably different.

On the other hand, among children, the duration of the attack is longer when the nose and throat are abnormal, and those with enlarged turbinates and with infected sinuses are more likely to develop moist coughs.
